

Message from Board Chair and CEO

2023-2024 proved to be an incredibly busy and productive year for ACDS as we rolled out and advanced significant work across all our service and program areas.

In May 2023, we were pleased to launch the new branding for the ACDS annual conference with a new conference name, Impact, and accompanying visual identity. The Calgary conference provided lots of opportunities for learning and networking and was followed up in the fall by the Impact+ webinar series that brought emerging topics from the conference to a broader audience.

The new fiscal year kicked off with the Government of Alberta's budget commitment to increased funding for wages and administration, and our release of Blueprint CDS: A Comprehensive Workforce Strategy for Community Disability Services, outlining a suite of 18 recommendations to advance the sector's workforce. We have since focused on implementing the report's recommendations and, with the support of the Ministry of Seniors, Community and Social Services, are currently taking concrete steps towards collaboration and new partnerships to advance training and career pathways for the sector. In January, we released the inaugural Sector Scanner report providing key insights related to ongoing issues and emerging challenges in the sector, such as housing, to guide and support our advocacy work.

ACDS program areas, including both accreditation and training, were challenged to innovate, enhance processes, and address needs and gaps while responding to significantly increased demand due to the deadline to meet new requirements for Secure Services and Complex Support Needs Designations. The Accreditation team also worked to refine and manage the influx of requests for accreditation of new service providers.

Whether working overtime, heading out into the community to complete surveys, or updating and developing new training offerings, we are proud of the hard work and commitment of our staff to support our members and the sector through this unprecedented demand.

Our Board of Directors welcomed a new Chairperson and three new members this year. The Board approved new board policies, reviewed and affirmed our strategic directions, developed a new membership framework, and actively worked to align processes and meetings to ensure the focus is on future priorities and challenges. We thank them for their continued championing of ACDS and the Community Disability Services sector.

We also wish to thank all our members who served on committees this year. We are truly overwhelmed by your ongoing support and willingness to give your time, wisdom, and energy to our work. Our members propel our efforts to build a strong, inclusive, and responsive Community Disability Services sector — whether through these formal commitments or simply through your trust and support as a member.

Finally, we thank the ACDS staff who truly went above and beyond this year.

A Year In Words

ON ADVANCING THE SECTOR

“I was thrilled to be asked to represent the Excel Society and be part of the Project Blueprint CDS Advisory Committee. The approach from the beginning was objective and designed to identify every component necessary for success. I believe we have found a path to a sustainable and professional workforce through the work that has been completed.”

— Brad Perkins, President and CEO, Excel Society

ON STRENGTHENING THE SECTOR

“All CET Surveys, both past and present, have been a great source of input and inspiration for our continuous improvement of the services that we provide. Your support was invaluable in enabling us to properly prepare and organize for the survey. We appreciate that your staff was able to conduct the survey in such an efficient and thorough manner, all the while meeting the March 31, 2024, deadline.”

— Bruce Skorobohach, Director, Columbia College

ON CONNECTING THE SECTOR

“It was an awesome conference, from the opening to the closing ceremony it was never been a dull moment! Kudos ACDS! You impacted my life with the best information and knowledge that I will be sharing and applying with individuals that I support and especially to my own SELF.”

— Impact 2023 Participant
